THE ONLY McNICHOLS,

HOMEMAKER TO THE MILLIONS,
1024 MARKET STREET.

The Song of Songs!

By One Who Loves Home.

About THE ONLY McNICHOLS.

They may talk of foreign countries,
Of the Klondike full of gold,
Or of Cape Town and its diamonds—
The half has not been told.
They may exult in Alpine climbing,
Where men fall down every day;
But I tell you there is nothing
In the world like weekly pay!

You may dream of Monte Carlo,
Where the world's the tourist goes;
You may travel to Siberia
Where wanderers starve and freeze;
By Italian lakes may ramble,
Or the Dead Sea go to sea;
But I tell you that there is nothing
Like McNICHOLS' Credit Plan!

What account is wife and bluster
When the whole is said and done?
And what the gambler's fortune
If he's lost more than he's won?
If you climb the Jungfrau safely
Or see Mont Blanc's snowy dome,
If you can't expect a welcome
And you haven't got a home?

So I say, let those who'd rather
Spend their money, time and sense
On the follies of the world,
Me a home for small expense.
You need nothing do but smile
Down to Eleventh and Market street
Wherever wishes to McNICHOLS.
I'll be done—a home—complete!

"Happy day, I learned to know it,
And my money—ceased to BLOW IT."

An easy and pleasant way to become happy—Thousands yearly find peace and joy through

THE ONLY McNICHOLS.
